Taxes and charges

The buyback of a company's own shares for the purpose of a reduction in capital is treated, both in terms of federal withholding tax and direct taxes, as a partial liquidation of the repurchasing company. Specifically, this has the following implications for the selling shareholders:

1. Swiss Withholding tax

Federal withholding tax is levied at 35% on the difference between the repurchase price of the share and its par value. This tax is deducted from the repurchase price by the repurchasing company or by the entrusted bank on behalf of the Swiss federal taxation authorities.

Persons domiciled in Switzerland are entitled to have any tax withheld reimbursed as long as they had the usufruct of the shares on the date of the shares' sale (Art. 21 Withholding Tax Act). No entitlement occurs in situations deemed to be tax evasion by the federal taxation authorities.

Persons domiciled abroad are allowed to claim reimbursement of this tax to the extent allowed under any double taxation treaties.

2. Direct taxes

The following explanations relate to the levying of direct federal taxes. As a rule, the same practice applies to cantonal and municipal taxes as to direct federal taxes.

- Privately held shares:
In the event of a share buyback by the company, the difference between the repurchase price and the nominal value of the shares represents taxable income (nominal value principle).
- Shares forming part of a company's assets:
In the event of a share buyback by the company, the difference between the repurchase price and the book value of the shares represents taxable profits (book value principle).

Persons domiciled abroad are taxed in accordance with the applicable law of the country concerned.

3. Duties and charges

The buyback of own shares for the purpose of a reduction in capital is not subject to transfer stamp tax. The fees of the SIX Swiss Exchange Ltd are nevertheless payable.

The tax ruling obtained and in particular the disclosures under 2 above are of a general nature and reflect the tax treatment for shareholders domiciled in Switzerland. As Castle Private Equity AG does not have information about the specific situation of individual investors, shareholders are advised to clarify their specific situation with their own legal, financial or tax adviser.
